

pete allibone

director of photography

I spent my formative years as a camera assistant at Shepperton Studios, after attending Ravensbourne College of Design. In the past 20 years I have accumulated an immense body of work, spanning drama, documentary, commercials, promos, natural history and feature films.

I have acknowledgements from distinguished television associations, nominations and awards including: 'Best Adventure Film' at the Boulder International Film Festival for 'The Wildest Dream'; 'Best Documentary Series' from the New York International Film & Television Festival; Grierson Nominee for 'Mammoth Autopsy'; RTS Award and BAFTA winning documentary 'Mummifying Alan'; BAFTA nominated Best Factual Series 'Tribe' for Channel 4; and more recently the 2016 Emmy Award winning "David Attenborough's, Rise of Animals."

I have a talent for visual storytelling and the ability to adapt to ever-changing situations. I thrive on location.
